

Reforesters of America

The first requisite of all education and discipline should be man-timber. Tough timber comes from well-grown, sturdy trees. Such wood can be turned into a mast, can be fashioned into a piano or an exquisite carving. But it must become timber first. Time and patience develop the sapling into the tree. So through discipline, education, experience, the sapling child is developed into hardy, mental, moral, physical man-timber.

—ORISON SWETT MARDEN.
